“C” the light

While most of us are aware of Vitamin C's role in the body for strengthening the immune system, its skin benefits are just as dramatic and well-documented.

Vitamin C is also known as Ascorbic Acid. A recent study in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition linked a higher intake of Vitamin C to a generally better skin appearance in women between the ages of 40 and 74, marked by fewer, less pronounced wrinkles and increased hydration.

In addition to fostering skin elasticity, Vitamin C is a potent antioxidant and an effective tyrosinase inhibitor, working overtime to thwart the assault of UV-induced free radicals which can catalyze melanin production and lead to photodamage and hyperpigmentation. When added to sunscreens and anti-aging formulas, Vitamin C acts as a performance enhancement component, boosting protective and reparative properties.

clear skin TIPS

✓ BE DISCIPLINED

While most troubled skin sufferers will see a difference in the first couple weeks of their skincare regimen, it can take 28 days for your skin cells to turn over. Getting your skin in balance requires time, consistency and discipline. Thoroughly cleanse and treat your skin every day, twice a day for lasting results.

✓ DON'T PICK

Scratching, pinching and squeezing might feel like the right thing to do, but they can lead to permanent scarring, plus increased inflammation, redness and swelling.

✓ KEEP CLEAN

Minimize the spread of bacteria by washing pillowcases, towels and makeup brushes weekly. Try to also avoid touching your face and keep long hair tied back.

✓ DON'T SWEAT IT

After exercise, be sure to use a mild cleanser to wash away sweat, which can attract pore-clogging impurities and lead to problems. Always shower immediately following a workout.

LOOK YOUR BEST AT ANY AGE

A Decade-by-Decade Beauty Guide

When it comes to health and the rate of aging, we used to think that our choices were limited—it's all in the genes. Yet only 36 percent of aging is due to factors beyond our control—the rest is up to us. So, what's the secret to achieving beauty at any age? Good health, quality of life and, of course, great skincare.

20s

The body and skin show little change in our twenties, but external factors such as sun exposure, alcohol consumption, poor dietary habits and smoking can wreak havoc further down the road. Make sunscreen a part of your daily skincare regimen and limit risky lifestyle choices to prevent premature aging.

30s

Our thirties can bring on a variety of different stressors—from hormonal fluctuations to work-related tension. Undergoing a series of non-wounding peels in conjunction with an at-home resurfacing regimen can dramatically reduce the look of stress-related blemishes, wrinkles and sun spots, helping you to hold on to your youth.

40s

As we enter our forties, our skin begins to lose elasticity, revealing lines and sagging areas. Encouraging cellular turnover and stimulating collagen production is central to promoting healthier, more youthful looking skin. Look for products infused with Vitamins A, C and E, and load up on fruits, green vegetables, seeds and nuts.

50+

After 50, internal changes compromise the skin's abilities to retain moisture and heal properly. Skincare treatments containing essential vitamins, emollients, soy isoflavones, Vitamin A and anti-oxidants —are essential for rejuvenating tone and texture and firming sagging skin.

PEELS Q&A

Ask an Aesthetician

Q What is a peel?

“Peels” include a wide range of exfoliating procedures that produce a peeling effect on the skin. The ultimate goal of any peel is the removal of the skin’s outer layer of primarily dead cells to create the healthy layer beneath. When performed properly, this procedure can effectively diminish the appearance of wrinkles, age spots, blemishes and more with little to no trauma to healthy cells.

Using natural, chirally correct ingredients—ingredients filtered to contain only the purest, skin-safe molecules—CosMedix peels encourage gentle, effective renewal. With CosMedix peels, there really is no true peeling, but a mild sloughing of the skin. This process—known as metabolic peeling—achieves dramatic results without the irritation and recovery time of a true chemical peel.

Q Is a peel right for me?

Practically any adult can benefit from a peel. Whether you’re looking to correct a specific skin concern, defy your age or simply refresh your complexion, a CosMedix peel can be customized to fit your needs. Before you schedule an appointment, your skincare provider will assess certain key traits—such as skin density and natural hydration—to see which peel is right for you.

Peels can vary in intensity, from very superficial, like Pomegranate Peel, to deep epidermal exfoliation like, to a mid-depth peel, like Timeless Peel. Your specific skin concern, along with your skincare provider’s assessment, will help establish the most effective solution for you.

Your Seven-Day Post-Peel Forecast

DAY 1 Skin may appear pink and feel tight. You may also experience mild swelling.

DAY 2 Tightness and swelling start to subside. You may notice slight flaking around the nose and mouth as dead skin starts to slough away.

DAY 3 You should experience less tightening and more flaking as dead skin continues to slough off, particularly while cleansing.

DAY 4 Continue cleansing to hasten the removal of dead skin.

DAY 5 Most heavy peeling should be over. Your skincare professional may recommend a mild exfoliating mask, like Pure Enzymes, to remove any remaining dead skin.

DAY 6 By now, you should notice a clearer, smoother-looking complexion with little to no flaking.

DAY 7 Enjoy your renewed complexion.
